

WorldBox Staff Guide

Hey there, fellow Staff Member! If you are reading this text, it means that you are trusted enough, and it also means that now you have a responsible burden - to keep order on our server.

To facilitate this task, we have prepared a special guide that will help you get used to your new responsibilities faster.

Welcome to the Staff Guide!

Document Structure

1. Staff Member - shortly about staff members, their rights, obligations, and more.
2. Staff Rules - a bunch of rules on how a good moderator should behave.
3. Violations - a major part which shows how you should behave in certain situations, and how you should punish for certain offenses. Divided into groups.
4. Useful Information - links, commands, and other.

Note 1: To quickly find rules or specific situations within this guide, use the search function:

- On the Desktop, press Ctrl + F (Windows/Linux) or Command + F (Mac).
- On Mobile, tap the find and replace.

And type the keyword you are looking for (e.g. nsfw). This will help you reach the needed topic right away without scrolling through the entire document.

Note 2: You can simply click on the name of the section and then again click on the name of the section to move to it.

Staff Member

A staff member is a new step in your development on the server. First of all, you get into a very cohesive team built over the years.

This means that you should join the team and become one team - as a family, always helping each other in different situations. We want the team to be active, friendly and loyal to everyone without exception - both to ordinary users on the server and to their colleagues.

The team is divided into 6 stages, each responsible for a certain aspect:

- Moderators - Trial and "verified" moderators are responsible for the order in the chat, monitor the absence of violations and, in principle, are our main staff. They are our workhorses who work tirelessly for the benefit of the server. Together they form a team ready to help in different situations, they often discuss any issues related to moderation in mod-mansion. You're probably the one from this category - which is great. Your duty is very important to our server, you help us not to cause anarchy on it.

- Senior Moderators - In addition to normal moderation duties, senior moderators serve as a bridge between trial/"verified" moderators and administrators, assisting with reviewing staff applications, updating the staff guide, maintaining knowledge-base, and generally working to improve the quality of moderation and raise suggestions/feedback. The senior moderator team is usually composed of a mix of 2-3 admins and 2-3 selected moderators, picked based on factors like moderation skills, communication skills, and understanding of what helps the team best.

- Administrators - the management department on the server. They are responsible for individual systems and projects on the server, each admin for one thing mostly. But in general, they are obliged to monitor the activity and maintain a warm atmosphere in the team - that's their main task. They moderate less on their own, as there are more management tasks, but they try to solve complex issues and lead the team in order to lead the server into the future.

Administrators also have a person who manages the team and projects in it - at the moment it is QuickLast (the Main Admin). Their usual tasks is to spectate for mods' activity, and also check and answer ban appeals (there are tons of them 😤)

- MAKO - are people who manage administrators. Without their approval, it is impossible to make any drastic changes, and it is better to consult with them on each issue - since the server belongs to them, and each change affects them first of all. You can't usually talk to them directly, so please contact admins for anything you want and don't bother the Devs.

As a moderator, you need to behave in a certain way. Remember that you are only monitoring violations on the server and your task is to keep the chat clean, not to ban half of the server. Keep this in mind and you will never have conflicts with server members. You don't have to be a dictator - you have to be a guide and an assistant to other people, helping them get used to the server faster.

You, like any other member of the server, are subject to sanctions for violations of the rules of the server/the Staff Guide. For violations of the rules or the guide, you will be given Staff Warnings, along with the usual warnings.

In total, you can receive 3 warnings - after which you will be removed from your position to a lower one or even demoted. You can also get an inactivity warning, which affects you in the same way as a usual Staff Warning. It's given if you're inactive for more than 2 weeks (more about it in Staff Rules #9). Try to be active, and you will be less likely to fail!

Staff Rules

1. Follow 📝rules, https://discord.com/guidelines and https://discord.com/terms yourself by heart. You should be an example. Be mature, kind, responsible, and fair. Do not pretend/claim to be a dictator (this usually causes a lot of problems with both staff members and server members). You as part of this team are an example of the community, when you show bad behavior, others will most likely follow it or even hold a grudge on you. The Rules count for you too just like for anyone else.

2. Do not abuse your powers in any way. If you are reported to be abusing your powers, you might lose your position as a member of the staff team forever. Please do not also use your power for jokes on random members, for example joke warnings or mutes. This may cause a lot of questions from all sides, painting our staff in a bad light. Please avoid doing this.

3. Nicknames are only allowed to be changed if they break any server rule or guide violation. Another case is when you have the user's permission to change their name. If they think you're abusing the power and report it to admins, this can turn into a staff warning.

4. Once you are demoted, it is usually for a good reason, Please do not throw a fit or try to argue about it as it will not increase the chances to return your position in the team.

5. Please as a Staff member avoid leaving and rejoining the server unannounced or for unnecessary reasons, We won't keep re-adding your roles back after you rejoin - if you leave and rejoin too many times you will not get your roles back once we think it's too much. If you want to go on break, please use the Break Button (#staff-resources channel)

6. Avoid making conflict with your fellow staff members, if something is the matter (E.x, Disagreements & Criticism) please resolve it in a civil manner as we don't want any tension or hate among the team - and if you can't resolve it together, please involve an Admin to deal with it or move it to DMs. Do NOT escalate it as it might get both in trouble. Avoid starting conflicts about small things such as someone removing your pins or removing your messages as these are unnecessary.
   This also means no false accusations and slander - Respect your team.

7. Please try to always listen to Administrators. They are here to help you and try to guide you in your journey as Moderator. If you disagree with something an Administrator says that's fine but discuss it in a civil manner - do not start an argument. Sometimes admin can choose a punishment which isn't in the Staff Guide - that's usually an exception, but usually it's for good

8. Be kind to everyone in the community. Some people can be immature, provocative and annoying or hard to deal with. But it is important that you are able to stay calm and respectful, and resolve situations maturely and responsibly. Treat the Community the same way you want to be treated as a member of the Community.

9. Please report long term inactivity within 2 weeks. If you are inactive for longer than 2 weeks or write only 2-10 messages a day and haven't reported to us your inactivity reason, there is a chance you might receive an inactivity warning and after that lose your position as moderator. Inactivity warnings can be redeemed when we see proper activity again + reported inactivity. The reason for these measures is because we like to have an active Moderation team so we need to remove inactive moderators to make space for new ones. Please if you don't have time as a staff member it is generally suggested to just step down by yourself and return once you have time again and there is available space in the staff team.

10. As a Staff member you are required to have an appropriate profile picture, About Me section and a status. Anything that Violates the Server rules or Violation guide regarding profiles is forbidden. (E.x, Nsfw, Gore etc)

11. QOTD (Question of the Day) can be done in the # ❓ qotd channel - https://discord.com/channels/522561390330904585/713416739462971493/1230112191009783850 The message to this shows you how to make a qotd.

12. "One more attempt" - As a Trial Moderator, you have only two chances to reach your goal of becoming a full Moderator. It is absolutely alright if you didn't pass it the first time - but the second time is your last chance. Please try your best and you will be rewarded for it, be sure.

13. Always clean messages that break rules after you do a punishment and possibly gather evidence where it is needed. The moderation bot will automatically keep track of deleted messages prior to the punishment.

14. Make sure to act Calm and Respectful to people when approaching a situation where you have to either Verbal or Punish someone and do not treat them poorly or make any unnecessary jokes, treat them like how you would want to be treated if you were them. People tend to listen better when you approach them in a respectful, understanding and calm manner. Of course if it's clear they aren't going to listen you may act a bit harsher on them with how you approach them.

15. Do not ignore the violations. If you see someone is breaking the rules, try to resolve it right away, please. Or else.

16. Connect 2FA to your discord account. So the chances you'll lose it are much lower (how to connect 2FA to your account)

17. When giving someone a punishment, do not use a word that breaks the rules/violates automod. Please use the reason provided in the staff guide; you could also ask a fellow moderator to help you with a reason.

Please keep in mind that these rules are subject to change at any time - you'll be notified.

Please check for more important tips and rules at the Useful Information page.

Violations

Before you start

Let's clarify some stuff just so you won't be confused while reading the Violations. Here in the WorldBox Server we have a special system for warning/muting/banning people. Please use this system while choosing a punishment for a user and remember to always label your warnings with the correct warning tag.

When you see a user breaking a rule before a past warn of the same violation expires, you can descend down the according punishment chain in order to stop the user from breaking the rules repeatedly and behaving disruptively.

<<Light>> Verbal - Warn - Warn/Mute (10m) - Warn/Mute(1h) - Tempban (1w)
Warn expiration date: 1 week

<<Minor>> Verbal - Warn - Warn/Mute (1h) - Tempban(1mo)
Warn expiration date: 1 month

<<Major>> Warn - Warn/Mute(1d) - Tempban (1y) - Ban(Perm)
Warn expiration date: 1 year

<<TOS>> Ban(Perm) + Report to Discord
There may be exceptions on this one. Really rare tho

If you have no idea how to Report, please read this guide:
https://discord.com/safety/360044103651-reporting-abusive-behavior-to-discord

<<Special>> - Violations marked with this tag are the only times we give a violation its custom punishment line. Please always ask an Administrator or Senior Moderator before using this.

In addition to the bans outlined in the different individual punishment lines, users get banned for having too many warns if they reach 5 simultaneously active warns of any severity. To notice when a warn limit ban is needed, make sure to check a users warns list whenever you warn them, and clear out any warns that have expired.
The severity of a warn limit ban is determined by the lowest most common warn severity the user has (e.g. <<Major>> if a users warns are Minor-Minor-Major-Major-Major or <<Minor>> if a users warns are Light-Minor-Minor-Major-Major), and warn limit bans always adhere to the standard duration of the severity, no matter when the individual warns making up the ban expire.
Warn limit bans are labelled as "Warn Limit".

Please remember to only ban when it's explicitly outlined by the guide. Don't unban users right after one of the warnings expires, unless the warning was falsely given and you have proven this to an admin. It's better to ask an admin to unban than to do it yourself.

How to navigate

One more thing about navigating. If someone asks you in #mod-mansion "where did you find that violation", you might use multiple ways to answer:

1. You may say "I've found it in AV4L", which means you've found it in Section A (disruptive behavior), violation 4, Light
2. You may say "I've found it in Rule 1,2 V4 Light", which means basically the same
3. You may say "I've found it in Controversial Topics, Light section"

All of them are equal, probably the fastest but the hardest to remember is the first one, but the last one is the most understandable for everyone.

Note: if you need to point to <<Major>>, you should use capital "M" letter; if you need to point to <<Minor>>, please use "m". Example: AV4m (Section A, Violation 4, minor) or AV4M (Section A, Violation 4, Major)

A. Rule 1, 2 | Disruptive Behavior

V1 - Being Disrespectful and Annoying

➔ <<Minor>>

- Situations when a person is rude to others, often tries to shut everyone's mouth or clearly holds a grudge against one/multiple users. Warn using <<Minor>>, If they continue to be rude to others even after a verbal, time them out for a period of time (1 hour preferably, but could be extended depending on how severe it is)

  The proper warn reason for this case would be a description of how the user behaves, such as “Rude”/”Grudge”

- Situations when a person isn’t just rude to people, but insults them directly/through passive aggression. Please remember people might be okay with joke insults.

- Situations when you see someone being blatantly rude to a new member simply because they are new, (stuff like “rebr” is okay but “shut it rebr” or “dirty rebr” is not)

- Situations when someone asks a question (when is the update or asking for help) and you see someone being rude or spreading misinformation

- Situations of sealioning, witch-hunting, passive-aggressive behavior, toxicity or trolling. If you’re not sure whether a person is someone from this list, please ask your fellow staff.

  The proper warn reason for this case would be a name of a definition (e.g “Witch-hunting”)

- Situations when you see multiple (more than 3) people targeting one user (usually a moderator) and say that they’re losers (example). Please note this applies only if a person isn’t okay with this

The proper warn reason for this case would be “Targeting a user”

➔ <<Major>>

- If anything from <<Light>> or <<Minor>> list is too bad or people constantly break the same rules, apply <<Major>>, putting a <<Major>> at the end of a message. Example: a user is being targeted too much with the intention of making them leave the server
  The proper warn reason for this case would be “[Name of the Light/Minor violation] <<Major>>”. E.g “Witch-hunting <<Major>>”
  Important: ask an admin/at least 3 mods before using this

  Some more examples for this one:
  1. A person is insulted not just by a "dumb" or "idiot", but usually uses a wall of text in which a huge insult is written, targeting one's personal identity and, God forbid, parents and relatives (not as a joke). This also applies to death threats
  2. When a person behaves toxic all the time, doesn’t listen to anyone's advice and warnings, constantly ignores everyone around and does not change, you can issue <<Major>>

- If a user joined the server just to troll people around. If you clearly see the user is here just to be toxic - feel free to skip the chain and ban/ask mods to ban him right away. We don’t need such people in our community. This only applies to no ranks who are warned multiple times back to back on the same day.

  The proper warn reason for this case would be “Troll”/”Came in server just to troll”

- If/when someone is extremely toxic or constantly spreads misinformation to newer people or anyone in general please warn them.

➔ <<Special>>

- Sometimes users, mostly Veteran members, tend to change their behavior, starting to be sea-lions, passive-aggressive or just toxic. These kinds of people are not welcomed in our server, so please consult fellow staff on what to do with them.

V2 - Discrimination and Intolerance

Please never write what slur exactly the user writes. Use ~se in #🔬testing-territory to show mods why have you exactly warned a guy. Never write it in chat, except for mods chats

Please skip the verbal for <<Light>> and <<Minor>> here.

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a person did not know about the meaning of these words or any other slurs from <<Minor>> to <<Major>> (really did not know, and is not fooling around). Please contact your fellow staff if you're unsure.

  The proper warn reason for this case would be "Using offensive slur, didn't know about its meaning".

- Using minor discrimination terms:
  Disclaimer: These are examples. No offense!

  1. Retard, Downey (using to call someone with a mental/other disability);
  2. Jap (derogatory term used by USA in WW2);
  3. Dyke/Lesbo (as a slur for lesbian people);
  4. Triple Parentheses, also known as (((echo))) (insulting jews);
  5. Ching/Chink Chong (is used to insult Chinese people);
  6. Gypsy (if used as an insult of the Gypsies)
  7. Using gay as an insult or joke (proper warn would be using gay as an insult or joke {depending on the usage}, minor)
  8. Thing (as an insult for the pronouns user have chosen (e.g. "Hey there, a thing" to a non-binary))
  The proper warn reason for this case would be "Using offensive slur(s)".
  9. Moskal, Khohol (as an insult from Ukrainians to Russians and vice versa);
  The proper warn reason for this would be "Using offensive slur(s)" {minor, depending on the usage}
  10. Using autism or referring someone as autistic in an offensive way;

- If a person misgenders other users (intentionally or not, no matter whether the targets gender identity aligns with their sex or not), point out their mistake and follow the rest of the minor line if they still continue. Note that this doesn't apply if the person who is being misgendered explicitly states that they do not take issue with it.

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Intentional misgendering"

- If a person sends offensive memes about gender/sexuality/other which may discriminate against some groups of people.
  This may be really subjective, so please, ask one more mod opinion on the meme.

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Sending an offensive meme".

- If a person uses some other names to bypass the n-word (e.g ni ||ce||)

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Bypassing the n-word"
  Note: you may verbal for this one if you think it suits the situation. Depends on how harsh the bypass was. If it was too harsh, please apply the violation from <<Major>> section of AV2

- If the user is not intentionally being Racist/Sexist/Homophobic/Transphobic/Doing Gender-Politics/Using Racial slurs. Please educate them why it's wrong.

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Not intentionally being a racist".

➔ <<Major>>

- Using major discrimination terms:
  Disclaimer: These are examples. No offense!

  1. Trap (using as an insult for transsexual people, sometimes people don't know this is offensive though so don't always warn them first);
  2. Nigga (n-word, a bit less offensive);
  3. Pidoras/Pidor (Пидорас/Пидор in Russian) (means Faggot in Russian, but not always is used as a sexuality insulting. Sometimes it's a synonym of "asshole");

4. Tranny (as a slur to insult trans people, can be TOS/a ban depending on the usage)

- If a person uses names of the countries to bypass some slurs (Niger/Nigeria) or uses some other close enough words to n-word with spoilers or any other ways (if it's not that harsh use the violation from <<Minor>> section)

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Bypassing a slur". Please apply a timeout for 2 weeks when warning for this violation

- Both jokes about sexuality/gender and blatant homophobia/transphobia are not allowed on our server

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Intentional Transphobia"/"Intentional Homophobia"

- Blatant Racism/Xenophobia or hateful comments about someone's race are not allowed on our server

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Racism" "Racist comment"

➔ <<TOS>>

- Using major discrimination terms:
  Disclaimer: These are examples. No offense!

  1. Nigger (n-word), Nigga too depending on the usage
  2. Faggot/Fag (used to insult gay people)

The proper ban reason for this would be "TOS slur(s)"

V3 - Spamming/Flooding and Mass Mentioning

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is flooding with pinging different people, continuously sending ping messages, use this.

The proper warn reason for this would be “spam pinging”

- If a user is sending a wall of text/copy pasta/ai-generated wall of text, please use this.

- The proper warn reason for this would be “Text/Copy Pasta/AI-generated wall of text”. Please ensure the text is indeed AI-generated or consult your fellow staff before warning a person.

  If a user is flooding using reactions, putting the same reaction under each message, warn them.
  The proper warn reason for this would be “spam reacting”

  If a user is flooding using emojis/stickers, use this.
  The proper warn reason for this would be “Flooding with emojis/stickers”

  If a user were to repeat a comment several times but in different minutes in a row, warn them for repeated comments and then once again ask them to stop. It’s borderline spam

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user is spamming not one sentence but a huge amount of text, use this.

  Warn and/or mute . The proper warn reason for this would be “Flooding with Huge Text”, this applies for spam too.

- If a user is flooding/spamming with something which harms the game (e.g “I hate worldbox” or “Guys worldbox is awful”), without any constructive manner of talk, ban them for trolling as they’re clearly here just to be disruptive.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Flooding with hate speech”

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user is flooding/spamming and is a clearly member of a raid, please deal with them ASAP, using this. incase of a confirmed raid, contact admins to activate riot mode and ban the raiders.

The proper ban reason for this would be “Raid/Raiding”. Please make sure they’re indeed raider and not just a usual dummy trying to be cool

V4 - Controversial Topics

Controversial topic situations are best described as situations where a user or group of users discuss something that can easily cause other users to get mad or start arguments. They usually include politics, religion, or other sources that might anger people. But please, don’t stop all the topics you think are not fit to the server - people have the rights to talk about their interests and topics, including war equipment and other military stuff (or any other topic)

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user mentions any banned historical figure or organization, you must close the topic immediately. This server is not a place for such discussions.
  - Controversial figures include Hitler, Mao Zedong, and Stalin
  - Controversial organizations include Nazis and Isis

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Controversial Topic”

- Sending memes about figures or organizations (whether allowed or banned)

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Controversial Meme”

- If a user is sending the flags of any organization (whether allowed or banned)

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Sending illegal flags”

- If a user is talking about politics and the discussion becomes heated

  You should send people to create a group chat or talk about it in DMs, as WorldBox Discord isn’t the place for heated debates.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Politics”

  Note: Politics is allowed on the server if people talk about it in a peaceful way. Some topics as current conflicts may be controversial, so close them. Some historical moments are okay to discuss.

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user is joking about tragedies (e.g 9/11 or any other terrorist act, basically when lots of people die)

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Joking about a Tragedy” or you put what exactly did they made a meme of, e.g “9/11 meme”

  Note: if a user is just discussing it with no jokes (takes it serious), then it’s okay

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user clearly shows he’s a supporter of an extremist group, such as the KKK(racist group), Hitler/Nazis, ect or anyhow spreads propaganda about it

  The proper ban reason for this would be “Supporter of (said extremist group)”, though use 📚knowledge-base to ask what's considered extremist

➔ <<Special>>

- If people are discussing a topic which obviously makes a chat toxic and causes only anger.

  Please consult your fellow staff members before punishing and remember that we’re helping people to chat in the right atmosphere, not to close all the topics we don’t like.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Controversial Topic/Rage Baiting(depends, should also consult staff members for this)”

  The chain for this one is
  <<Special>> - Verbal - Warn/Mute(1h) - Warn/Mute(12h) - Tempban(1mo)

V5 - Mini-modding

➔ <<Light>>

- If a user keeps telling people what they should or shouldn't do and is annoying
  The proper warn reason for this would be "Mini-modding (light)", and tell them to report stuff to staff members next time.

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is behaving like a moderator, basically worse than in the <<Light>> case

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Mini-modding (minor)"

V6 - Disruptive Media

These are situations in which the ~banish command would be used. This is only used for when they are posting disruptive media (this includes images, emojis, reactions, etc.). If they are showing disruptive behavior, please use ~timeout and follow AV1 or whatever their behavior falls under instead. Disruptive media is more of a subjective term as well, so do not abuse this command, and if you are questioning if something falls under this, please ask a fellow mod in mod mansion.

➔ <<Light>>

- If a user is spamming with reactions, use this.

  The proper warn reason for this would be "spam reactions"

  The proper chain for this would be:
  <<Light>> Verbal - Banish(1h) - Warn/Timeout(1h) - Tempban (1w)

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is sending the same image over and over or sending other rulebreaking media, use this.

  The proper warn reason for this would be "posting disruptive media"

The proper chain for this would be:
<<Minor>> Verbal - Banish (1d) - Warn/Timeout (1d) - Tempban(1mo)

Note: if a user sends anything that breaks TOS (nsfw, TOS slurs, etc.) skip the banish and ban them.

V7 - Inappropriate Jokes

This section has several similarities to V4. Controversial Topics, except this focuses on jokes/memes about these topics and is meant to give more clarity as to what severity an inappropriate joke should be labeled as.

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user makes a joke that is indirectly telling someone to kill themselves.

The proper warn reason for this would be "self-harm joke"

- If a user is making jokes about banned controversial figures but not in a way that glorifies their actions or makes fun of tragedies they caused.
    - Controversial figures include Hitler, Mussolini, Tojo, Mao, Stalin, al Assad, Pinochet, bin Laden, Gaddafi, Hussein, Pol Pot, and Franco
    - Controversial organizations include Hamas, ISIS, Taliban, Al Qaeda, Houthis, Hezbollah, Nazis, Imperial Japan, Wagner, and the KKK

The proper warn reason for this would be "Controversial Meme"

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user is directly telling someone to kill themselves

The proper warn reason for this would be "Telling a user to self-harm"

- If a user is joking about tragedies (e.g 9/11, the Holocaust, bombings, mass shootings, or any other terrorist act, basically when lots of people die).

The proper warn reason for this would be "Joking about a Tragedy" or you put what exactly did they made a meme of, e.g "9/11 meme"

Note: if a user is just discussing it with no jokes (takes it serious), then it's okay

- If a user is making jokes glorifying the actions of a controversial figure or trying to make them look good

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Jokes glorifying a controversial figure”

- If a user is making jokes about pedophiles that defend/glorify them. Jokes that make fun of victims of pedophiles or jokes that might trigger them are also not allowed.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Glorifying child exploitation”

- When a user makes a joke about liking underage people.

  The proper warn reason would be “NSFW jokes/comments”

B. Rule 3 | Channel Usage + Commands Usage

V1 - Joke/False Reports

Please investigate the report and ensure it’s indeed a joke/false warning before issuing a warn.

→ <<Minor>>

- If a user sends a false report with the intent of someone getting warned for a false reason, please warn for this. If the user genuinely thought that another user was breaking the rules when they were not, inform the reporter that the person did not break any rules and do not punish anyone, as unintentional false reports do not go against rules.
  The proper warn reason for this would be "False Report"

  If a user sends a joke report, e.g "hello mods" or just using it as a test, please warn for this.
  The proper warn reason for this would be "Joke Report"

  For both of these situations, you can skip the verbal.

V2 - Wrong Channel

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user sends a message to the wrong channel unintentionally, simply guide them to the correct channel.
  If they keep on using the wrong channel though, that is warnable.
  The proper warn reason for this would be “Wrong Channel”

- If a user were to speak the wrong language in 🌍general or in the language channels unintentionally, guide them to the correct channels. If they continue to do this then light warn them and time them out. Make sure to guide them to the correct channel

  ^ If the person speaking the wrong language doesn’t have the role (click on their profile and check), use this command. {For example, if someone speaking french doesn’t have the france role, do ~alg @username :flag_fr: and then guide them to the french channel.}

  If a person were to speak the wrong language intentionally to specifically make mods annoyed, this falls under minor and the warn reason should be “Wrong language (intentional, minor)

  Saying a word in a different language does not fall under this

- If a user uses commands outside the #bot-commands (and other chats where it’s allowed)

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Using commands in wrong chat”

C. Rule 4, 7 | Scam, TOS and Safety

V1 - Underage Member

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is joking about being under 13 and they're obviously above 13

  Please educate them this isn't a good example and that their account might be disabled due to this.

  If a user is causing other people to tell they're under 13 or anyhow asks them about it.

  Please remember you mustn't ask people about their age even if they're under 13. Keep it like this - these people won't harm anyone - or try to make them say it themselves (not as a joke tho).

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Asking for age, (minor)"

  Baiting people to say they're underaged just to get their account banned on discord falls under a major warn for attempting to get people banned, and a kick / ban depending on how long they're trying to do it

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user have said they're under 13

  We can't have any members who are under 13 because of Discord TOS, so we need to ban them with "Underage" reason. You should use a tempban if you their actual age is known exactly, for example if a person says they're 12, you should tempban them for 1y.

V2 - Scam

➔ <<Special>>

- If a user sent a scam link (or any other kind of scam) but in the end it reveals it wasn't a user himself and he was hacked - apply <<Special>>

  The chain for this one is
  <<Special>> - Tempban(1d)

Note: if a user continues to send scam right after he joins back - ban him using <<TOS>> since it's probably not the Special case

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user is a clearly scammer (their account was created not long ago, they are clearly dming people about scams)

  The proper ban reason for this one would be "Scammer"

V3 - Impersonation

➔ <<Special>>

- If a user is trying to impersonate someone with personal (usually to harm a person) reasons

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Impersonation"

  The chain for this one is
  <<Special>> - Warn/Tempban(4w) - Ban

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user set up a user, forging dms or messages on the server

  The proper ban reason for this would be "Setting up a user"

D. Rule 5 | Piracy, NSFW and Gore

V1 - NSFW Content (Including Gore)

Please always try to contact other staff members just to make sure you are right on pushing the warn here/banning the person there. NSFW is a really subjective thing. Better to ask an admin.

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is sending videos/photos clearly showing NSFW context (ahegao, some parts of lingerie), or anything else when bypassing

  If a user is sending messages/videos containing nsfw words (body parts, process, emojis), or trying to bypass nsfw words using other phrases,

  If a user is sending videos/photos showing some nsfw parts of the body(unintentional)
  Not that nsfw but this also contains kissing (long/big kiss) of any people, French Kissing

- Sometimes people use words like “Daddy”, “Horny” in NSFW way. Please watch for something like this as this isn’t appropriate

  All this would have a “NSFW (Minor)” as a warn reason.

- If a user is talking about illegal drug/medicine abuse (such as shooting heroin/snorting cocaine) - talks about non-abuse of drugs/medicine in general topics are OK.

  All this would have a “Drug Abuse Talk <Minor>” as a warn reason.

- If a user is sending videos where you can see minor animal abuse (bugs getting killed/injured is okay - not stuff like shrimps getting boiled alive) - it’s not a good example to send in chat but it’s still not enough bad to do the Major warn for this

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Minor Animal Abuse”

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user sends messages describing NSFW activities in excessive detail (e.g., masturbation, graphic sexual acts).
- Or if a user shares photos/videos displaying sexualized body parts or excessive nudity.

All of this would have “Major NSFW” as a warn reason

- If a user is sending videos where children are getting harm in any way (no blood). Remember that you shouldn’t think like “oh what will be after this video”. If the video isn’t showing you any blood - don’t imagine anything more and use <<Major>>

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Child Abuse Video”

- If a user plays really NSFW songs in Voice Chats or talk about NSFW in it

  The proper warn reason for this would be “NSFW in VC”

  Note: sometimes it may be a <<Minor>>, depending on what the user said.
  Note 2: N-Word in songs isn’t that bad if it isn't used as an insult, so let it be.

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user is sending direct nsfw/links/trying to involve people in such conversations

  The proper ban reason for this would be “TOS NSFW”

- If a user is sending videos where you see any blood or cut parts of body - and it’s obviously blood - there’s no other way other than just banning the person.

  The proper ban reason for this would be “Gore”

V2 - Piracy

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is saying he has a pirated game which isn’t WorldBox

  Please tell them not to say this again, we don’t really need that in the server

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Said they have a pirated game (not WorldBox)”

- If a user is asking about some sites where they can download games, movies, ect illegally. If they get an answer - you punish both the one who asked and the one who answered (starting with verbal ofc).
  Please close the topic, remove all the links or mentions of the site(s), only after this do the punishment
  The proper ban reason for the user giving the pirated website would be "Giving a pirated website", and the user that asked will get banned for piracy.

- If a user is asking about pirated WorldBox

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Asking for piracy"

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user is spreading a game copy of WorldBox

  The proper ban reason for this would be "Spreading WorldBox Piracy"

- If a user claimed they have pirated WorldBox

  The proper ban reason for this would be "WorldBox Piracy (Appeal with proof after buying the game)"

  Note: If they said it - make sure it's not an obvious joke (usually it's a joke when people are writing it in "" or quoting someone). Even if you banned them they still can purchase the game and keep talking on the server, so don't worry about it alot.

  There might be a case when people admitted they have a pirated WorldBox on one device, but they've bought it on the other one. It's a tough situation, but if they've shown you it somewhere - let them be and tell them not to talk about it anymore. If they keep talking - feel free to ban them.

- If a user is sending a full movies/other content which is illegal to spread

  The proper warn reason for this would be "Spreading Piracy"

V3 - Jumpscares, Loud or Flashing Media

➔ <<Light>>

- If a user is sending a video with jumpscares, loud or flashing media without putting a spoiler on it and writing that it contains anything which can harm a user

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Jumpscare/Loud/Flashing Media”

V4 - Voice Chat (VC) Rules

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user is causing disturbance in a voice channel as making loud noises or screaming, using a soundboard or repeatedly joining and leaving the channel to annoy others

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Disturbing in VC”

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user starts conversations about NSFW or plays really NSFW songs in a voice channel

  The proper warn reason for this would be “NSFW in VC”

  Note: Sometimes it may be a <<Minor>>, depending on what the user said.

  Note 2: N-Word in songs isn’t that bad if it isn't used as an insult, so let it be

- If a user shares their screen in a voice channel displaying sexualized body parts or excessive nudity

  The proper warn reason for this would be “NSFW Screen Sharing in VC”

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user shares their screen in a voice channel to illegally stream movies, tv series, or pirated games

The proper ban reason for this would be “Streaming copyrighted content in VC”

- If a user blatantly shows NSFW body parts, explicit pornographic content, or plays NSFW sounds in a voice channel

  The proper ban reason for this would be “TOS NSFW in VC”

E. Rule 6, 8 | Content Rules

V1 - Inappropriate Content

Remember - you mustn’t actively find inappropriate content. You shouldn’t ask to change people’s names, pfp (profile pictures) and other content if a user isn’t chatting or isn’t visible on the server.

➔ <<Light>>

- If a user has a non-pingable or invisible name, you ask them to change it. If they refuse to, you change their nickname to “pingable name”. If they change it back - feel free to warn them.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Unpingable name”/”Invisible name”

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user has an inappropriate pfp, username, or tag, you should ask them to change it. If they refuse, or change it after some time back - feel free to warn + kick them.

➔ <<Major>>

- If the pfp, username, or tag is bad enough to the point where it doesn’t deserve a verbal, just warn and kick

  Remember to warn before you kick them! The proper warn reason for this would be “Inappropriate /pfp/name”

  If they still come back after the warn and kick with the same status/profile picture/name, ban them and the reason should be “not changing pfp/username”

Do note that for statuses you will not moderate them unless it promotes hateful opinions or violates TOS, although ask a fellow staff member if you have a question regarding a user’s status

Note: ads in statuses are okay, unless they’re scam/TOS breaking.

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user has TOS breaking content in the About Me or PFP (such as N-Word Hard R, Nazi Support, Blatant Pedophila, Nudity, (etc.), Ban them. If the About Me contains content that is not TOS violating, then we do not moderate.

  Please skip the verbal part, and use Ban for this case.

  The proper Ban reason for this would be “ToS Breaking Profile”

V2 - Advertisements

Advertising can be classified either by DM or by Server, on the server the bot should automatically remove any links and deal with the user, if they bypass this in some-way, this violation applies.
DM advertisements are taken with good faith on the reporter, and they may be punished if they are found falsifying evidence.

➔ <<Minor>>

- If you see a user asking other people to join their server (with no links) or if they promote their server in any other way with no links

  The proper warn reason would be “Asking to join their server”, then kick

➔ <<Special>>

- If you see a person somehow bypassing the automod, use this

The proper kick/warn reason for this would be “Bypassing Ads”

- If you’ve received a report about DM Ads or got an Ad yourself, use this

  The proper kick/warn reason for this would be “DM Ad”

  Remember to ~se the proofs

  The chain for this one is
  <<Special>> - Warn (minor) / Kick - Tempban(3mo)

V3 - Plagiarism

➔ <<Special>>

- If a user sends an art/other content and claims it’s his, but then the fact it was stolen is revealed

  The proper warn reason would be “Plagiarism”

  Remember to ~se the proofs

  The chain for this one is
  <<Special>> - Warn (minor) - Warn (major) - Tempban(3mo)

F. Rule 9 | Mods’ Duty and Extra

V1 - Bypassing Punishments

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a member bypasses automod, the warn reason should be “Bypassing Automod”. If a member bypasses automod before, you can skip the verbal.
- If a member sends an automodded word, gets blocked and doesn't either bypass to ask why it’s automodded or because it seemed pointless to them that it’s block, the user probably knew it was wrong. The warn reason should be “Bypassing Automod After Block”.

➔ <<Major>>

- If a member bypasses automod and it is too intense for a minor warning, skip to major warning with the reason being “Bypassing Automod”.

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a member bypasses anything against the TOS, the ban reason should be listed as “TOS Bypass”.

- If a member bypasses a timeout or ban with another account, ban the main account and the alt with the reason “punishment bypass”.
- If a member leaves the server to avoid any punishment, ban them with the reason “punishment bypass”.

V2 - Leaking Information

➔ <<Special>>

- Server is full of secret info - since it’s a main place where devs are connected with translators/beta-testers etc.

  Sometimes the guys who were chosen for the beta tester role (or any other roles which have access to the secret chats) show themself as immature and leak the information. In this case please use this violation.

  Please send all the proofs directly to admins, no ~se here (!)

  Admins will consult devs on the guy who leaked something and then will decide what to do with them. Only take cases of leaking to admins, not senior mods or other moderators. You don’t take any actions here.

V3 - Sharing Personal Information & Doxxing

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user said their personal information (real name with surname/address/sent you a geo not in DMs etc.)

The proper warn reason for this would be “Spreading personal information”

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user doxxed someone (e.g. sent their face if it was supposed to be in DMs only and people who were doxxed are harmed about showing it)

  It’s a rare case, so consult admins. They’ll choose whether this user should be banned or major warned.

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Doxxing”

V4 - Harm on the Game and the Community

➔ <<Minor>>

- When a user is saying the game has a virus or anything else which is obviously wrong and making people to believe in it

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Wrong information about the Game”

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user’s messages are getting too far with it. You may turn Minor/Light to a higher one if it’s too bad

  The proper warn reason for this would be “<Reason of the Minor/Light> (Major)”. Please consult fellow staff before punishing them.

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user come to the server just to troll and say bad stuff about the game

  The proper ban reason for this would be “Troll”

V5 - Staff Hate

Guys, remember, that people don’t have a grudge just like that. If they do this, probably the reason is because you did something wrong or you had a conflict in the past. Or you’re indeed too strict. Remember, our main goal is to have the chat clean from the violations, and not to ban half of the server, so you can give more verbals or something more. If you want to have a good reputation, ask an admin or someone else to warn/ban/mute a user for you. Try working on the reputation and it will work for you

➔ <<Minor>>

- If a user comment all the staff decisions and this is getting too far

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Commenting Staff”, mute them if they continue telling them to take it to administration

  Note: please give a person multiple verbals before warning them, because usually it’s just your subjective opinion. You can consult your fellow staff for more opinions if it’s a violation or not.
  Make sure to consult an admin before laying a punishment out

- When a user is having a grudge on a staff member, trying to bring him into conflict

  First tell them to consult an admin if they think you do something bad, if they continue - use this

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Grudge on Staff Member”

➔ <<Major>>

- If a user involves other people into Staff Hate, trying to set up someone or cause a riot from members regarding staff

  The proper warn reason for this would be “Involving people into Staff Hate”

➔ <<TOS>>

- If a user come to the server just to staff hate and say bad stuff about the staff

  The proper ban reason for this would be “Troll”

V6 - Inappropriate DMs

Everything from the guide includes DMs also. Please treat people the same in the DMs. There might be exceptions though, since DMs are the personal space of every person.

You don't take any actions before consulting an admin if it's something related to the social connections with people

V7 - Skirting the Rules

If someone is continuously skirting the rules and stopping before they get a warn, feel free to issue a warn to them. This warn would be <<Special>> and would call for clear evidence of repeated offenses. Do not abuse this, and consult other staff members before issuing this type of warn.

S1 - Staff Duty

As a staff, you have to be an example to the people. We shouldn't interrupt your personal life - so if you drink alcohol or take any drugs - we don't support it, but just don't talk about it. You can say some words in #crew-chambers, but please keep all of this out of the server.

If we see you talking about it or if you're, God forbid, moderating under drugs or drunk - this may cause a huge issue to you up to demotion. So watch what you do and think twice before doing something.

We want a mature and responsible staff, so please, try to become one and you will be rewarded.

(If you know you'll have some issues, you can ask an admin to timeout you, or you can just delete discord for some time)

Useful Information

Here you can find some useful information on some special situations. Links and commands are also here.

1. Members are allowed to appeal either through form or reaching out to staff, However for their appeal to be accepted can depend on what they did, and which punishment line their violation follows, for example <<TOS>> is in most cases unappealable. Please contact admin to see if the user can be unbanned.

2. Avoid making a scene in public. All discussion between a moderator and a member related to moderator's actions or anything alike should be dealt with in DMs.

3. Remember to have non-English channels unmuted. Just because you don't see them doesn't mean spammers and rule-breakers don't see them!

4. If you do not know what to do in a situation or if you're unsure, please always confer with Staff for help, to avoid making mistakes.

5. Do not answer a question if you clearly don't know the answer to it. You might accidentally give out false information. Ask someone in the team who knows the answer.

6. Always look into the context of a situation before taking action. To judge whether an action is needed or not. We don't want anyone to be unrightfully punished.

7. Do not always blindly/strictly follow the Guide, sometimes a situation may need extra attention or be treated differently depending on the context which might not always be written in the Guide. Remember that the punishments are subject to change or exempt depending on the scenario when needed, the Staff Guide is merely a guide of what you should do for most cases, this will not mean that every case is open and shut, and that you punish them with X punishment.

8. Regarding banning Contributors Members, first reach out to an Admin and let the admin review the situation before banning them, you can mute them while you wait for a response or decision.

   The Admin will see if we should actually ban them or give them a chance. Contributors directly assist the Game Developers in some way and may need to be kept in the server for certain reasons. The Admins will ultimately decide their fate and their worth. In the case a Contributor does violate these rules to a bannable extent, please timeout for 24 hours and ping an Admin for assistance.

   How to recognize a Contributor? Contributors are members who hold the roles of "Contributor" or "Creators Community"

9. All Violations (Warns/Kicks/Mutes/Bans) are logged in #📃moderation-logs, Make sure to always specify a reason in the Punishment reason, and try to always use the command in the channel where the violation happened so it logs the chat incase we need evidence. Can't use it in the channel of violation? Make a screenshot and post the Evidence with ~se.

10. Feel free to ban users with no roles and chat history who clearly are here just to be toxic, troll, spam or bring trouble, and aren't changing even after being told several times to behave and stop. Please use this only when you are sure the user is not gonna change and keep causing issues. They may appeal though if they get the message after the ban. Abuse of this rule is NOT tolerated!

Distinguishing between Hate and Criticism

Criticism:

- requires constructive information on how to improve a person's talents in map-making;
- must be worded kindly;
- doesn't insult or demean the map maker.

Hate:

- Doesn't provide any useful information to the map maker;
- exists exclusively to hurt the feelings of the map maker;
- features mean statements or insults geared towards the map maker or the map itself.

Bot Commands

Moderation Commands

-timeout @user (time) (Reason)

For timeouting a user, time is optional, 10m by default
Works the same as mutes but built-in and much more convenient

-untimeout (or -removetimeout) @user (Reason)

For removing a timeout from a user. Please add a reason to an untimeout.

-banish @user (time) (Reason)

For banishing a user, time is optional, 10m by default.
Banishment removed someone's ability to react to messages and post images.

-unbanish @user (Reason)

For removing a banishment from a user. Please add a reason to an unbanish.

-kick @user

For kicking a user.

-warn @user (Reason)

For warning a user.

-warnings @user

Shows past warnings of a user.

-ban @user (reason)

For permanently banning a user.
-ban @user (time)(d/mo/y) (reason)

For temp banning a user (please avoid using numbers in the reason since it may be taken as a time for a ban)

-clean (number)

For cleaning messages. Mentioning a user with this command removes their messages specifically.

-unban @user (reason)

-tempban @user (time) (reason)
Same as with usual ban with time

-se (text if needed) (attach image if needed)

This command lets you send image and/or text evidence of punishment in moderation logs.

-add_note (public-modlog-message-link-or-id>) (The note to add)

This command lets you add a note to an existing modlog from #public-moderation-logs

-wmlr (link to modlog message) (:reaction to remove:) (reason (optional but needed))

This command lets you to remove the reaction in #public-moderation-logs if it's inappropriate. Reason is optional, but it's better to add it.

Other Commands

~answer (~a) (keyword)

This command lets you easily help people with the common asked questions. Putting "help" as the keyword gives you a list of possible options.

~ci

This command lets you stay immune to hot potato curses for 30 seconds. Might be useful to point out for if you need to moderate something while having a punishment like Omori GIF Curse

~alg (target_user) (language_role)

This command adds a language role to a user and pings them with the new chats that the role gives them access to.

Example usage:

About Staff Chats

Some information about the chats you'll work with

Your main two chats to work with:

#mod-mansion - a chat made for moderation talk. Only staff members can see it, and you need to talk about moderation duties there. You can ask your fellow staff about an issue you have, or consult someone there.

#testing-territory - a chat made for bot commands. Please avoid using commands outside of the chat so other chats aren't flooded with useless information. You can test some bots, issue warnings there or other (please keep in mind that it's better to issue a warning in the chat of violation, just so it may be logged by yagpdb bot).

Other chats:

#crew-chambers - a chat made for hanging out with crew. This chat can be seen by crew members: helpers, legacy staff (retired staff) and the current staff members. You can discuss whatever you want here - usually it's really cozy to chat in it.

#ban-appeals - a chat made for (unsurprisingly) ban appeals. You can discuss the bans inside the threads in it, and help admins with the decision.

#staff-suggestions - a chat made for suggesting something directly to admins, so your idea might be implemented with the higher chance. Used to be for both server and game suggestions, but mostly it's used for server suggestions only, as devs don't really check the chat (too busy yk).

Other Information

Something else which may help you while you help us moderate the community.

To ping a chat using <>, use this construction:

``<#put-an-id-of-the-chat-here>``

Example:

``<#803158365366648874>`` will be #🇯🇵-日本語-チャット

To ping a person using <>, use this:

``<@put-the-id-of-the-user-here>``

Example:

``<@569973727010357252>`` will be

To ping a role using <>, use this construction:

``<@&put-the-id-of-the-role-here>``

Example:

``<@&523117519851094036`` will ping Administrator role
